Dear Friends,

We invite you to join us in celebrating Jewish Greater Washington. Ours is a large, growing, and engaged Jewish community, and we are blessed to live amongst many of the strongest, most vibrant Jewish organizations and creative leaders in the country.

As a Jewish people, our 3,500 years of tradition, literature, and wisdom connect us as a people and drive us forward. Our core beliefs, that all people are created in God’s image and that we have the capacity to transform the world, have elevated our collective aspirations. We envision an open, connected, and vibrant Jewish community that cares for each other, fosters Jewish learning and journeys, embraces Jewish peoplehood and Israel, and acts as a force for good in the world. Together, we are building precisely that.

The Jewish Federation of Greater Washington partners with many individuals and organizations, mobilizing in common purpose to inspire, build, and sustain vibrant Jewish life in a changing world. We are proudly accelerating intentional innovation by bringing together local, national, and global agencies, synagogues, schools, and many other organizations; elevating our vision for what is possible and developing new ways to engage with one another and secure our Jewish future.

In this 2018 Community Report, we are pleased to shine a spotlight on several members of our community who benefit from the work of Federation and our many partner organizations. WE ARE...

EVERY MEMBER OF OUR COMMUNITY

Deepening our understanding of who we are begins with listening to each distinct voice that makes up Jewish Greater Washington. Federation and our partners are committed to advancing and fostering inclusion. Through programs and services that welcome, raise awareness, and advocate for the rights of all community members, we grow the ways in which everyone feels invited and encouraged to participate in Jewish life.

Jacob is working independently

“I have a mug with my name on it, and a desk. I go to staff meetings. I like my job at Federation. I love being on the team.”

—Jewel W., MOST™ intern at The Jewish Federation

Federation proudly supports the Jewish Foundation for Group Homes’ Sally and Robert Goldberg Maryland Meaningful Opportunities for Successful Transitions (MOST™) program, which prepares individuals with disabilities for independent, self-sustaining adulthood by providing real-world professional experience. This year, Federation was proud to welcome Jacob as our third MOST™ intern.

Mindy has found her community

“GLOE has been a home-base for me—a place where I don’t have to choose between my LGBTQ identity and my Jewish identity. The program offerings provide a unique balance of educational, spiritual, and social opportunities, and—most of all—it is a place to find community.”

—Mindy G., GLOE participant

The Edlavitch DCJCC, a Federation partner, is home to GLOE–The Kurlander Program for GLBTQ Outreach & Engagement. GLOE engages the local GLBTQ Jewish community through original programming and events, and by fostering a welcoming and inclusive environment for those of all identities.

Chris and his family feel represented

“It was incredible to open our PJ Library book and see that it perfectly reflected our interreligious and interfaith family. My wife actually broke down and cried with joy when she read through the book and saw my family sitting at the Shabbat table.”

—Chris Z., PJ Library™ parent

Federation proudly brings PJ Library and PJ Our Way to Greater Washington, connecting 7,691 families with young children (ages 0–11) to Jewish life, one another, and our larger community. Each month, children enrolled in these programs receive free Jewish books as a gift from Federation, the Harold Grinspoon Foundation, and other generous donors. Each title is carefully selected to encourage family discussions around Jewish values and traditions. Beyond being a great reason to snuggle up for a bedtime story, PJ Library serves as a catalyst for families to feel at home in our larger community—meeting and coming together with other parents and children for storytime, volunteer opportunities, holiday celebrations, and more.
WE ARE... Engaging
WITH ONE ANOTHER
To live in an engaged community is to live in a place that offers diverse opportunities to explore Judaism, connect with like-minded people, and act as a force for good in the world. Federation, together with partners across MD, DC, and Northern VA, ensures endless possibilities for meaningful connectivity for all who seek it.

“Federation has enriched my life by connecting me to mentors in the community, friends with similar values, and empowering leadership opportunities. It’s made me a more engaged citizen of the Jewish community and a more intentional philanthropist. It’s helped root me more permanently in DC, a transient city, by anchoring me in such a strong community.”
—Jamie P., board member (2015–2018), Federation’s Young Leadership

“Community service is something you do for others, but it also feels really good to make small changes and small positive impacts.”
—Jesse B., Co-Chair, Sara & Samuel J. Lessans Good Deeds Day and member, Jewish Federations of North America’s National Young Leadership Cabinet

“Drag Queen Havdalah & Storytime at our shul...how times have changed! I am grateful that we can be out and proud within our Jewish community.”
—Nicole B., member, Temple Shalom

Honeymoon Israel is empowered by funding from Federation, provides trips to Israel for couples with at least one Jewish partner, but the journey does not end when couples return. After the trip, participants are encouraged to build and strengthen their new community of peers. Locally, alumni groups are organizing Channukah parties, Passover seders, Shabbat dinners, volunteer projects, and more—foraging Jewish community and discovering meaningful ways to incorporate Judaism into their lives.

“Honeymoon Israel was one of the best experiences of my life. The connections we both formed with our new Jewish community have reinvigorated my love for my culture and given my husband a confidence in claiming his relationship with Judaism that I only wished was possible.”
—Kendra R., Honeymoon Israel participant

Moishe House, a Federation partner, enables young adults in their 20s to create meaningful, home-based Jewish experiences for themselves and their peers. Moishe House provides rent subsidies and program budgets to its millennial residents, who then use their home to create their ideal Jewish communal space.

“I was in college when I truly began my Jewish journey. I joined a synagogue, studied in Israel, and worked at a Jewish organization, but I was still missing a network of Jewish peers. By living in a Moishe House and organizing innovative and engaging programs for Jewish young adults in Northern Virginia, I have found my community and the missing puzzle piece in my Jewish identity.”
—Emily M., Moishe House Northern Virginia resident

8,000+ members of the community gave back through 150 volunteer opportunities on Federation’s Sara & Samuel J. Lessans Good Deeds Day 2018

WE ARE... Building JEWISH IDENTITY

Establishing a Jewish identity is a lifelong journey. As we find ourselves more fully immersed in Jewish life, we deepen our connections to fellow community members and build relationships that sustain us through every stage of life. Together with our partners across Greater Washington and around the world, Federation invigorates Jewish life for all community members, offering a multitude of opportunities for connection and for discovering how they can live a life infused with Jewish meaning.

Cheryl feels supported in raising a Jewish family

For families with young children living in Northern Virginia (NoVa), the j.family ambassadors initiative makes the NoVa Jewish community more welcoming, inviting, and accessible by connecting families to Jewish programming, resources, and to each other. The program is fully funded by Federation and presented in partnership with the JCC of Northern Virginia. It will expand in the coming year to Montgomery County and Washington, DC, in partnership with the Bender JCC of Greater Washington and the Edlavitch DCJCC.

“If we started a family, we knew almost no one Jewish in Northern Virginia. I had no idea the impact the j.family ambassadors program would make to our lives over the last couple years. The feeling of being welcomed into a Jewish community I didn't even know existed was so amazing! This program has enriched our lives more than we could have ever imagined.”

—Cheryl K., participant, j.family ambassadors

Mira is securing her Jewish values as a teen philanthropist

Federation’s Jteen Philanthropy goes beyond a simple tzedakah (charity) lesson or fundraising project. By engaging teens in collective philanthropic giving, this program helps youth understand the Jewish obligation of tzedakah on a deeper level and provides them with an opportunity to make a direct impact on the world.

“Throughout my Jteen experience, I have not only learned how to be a philanthropist, but how our Jewish values can influence the way we help others. At Jteen, I was able to channel both my love for helping others and the love for Judaism I carry with me.”

—Mira F., graduate, Jteen Philanthropy

Establishing Jewish identity in the Baltics

For families from the Jewish communities of post-Soviet Latvia, Lithuania, and Estonia, opportunities to instill strong Jewish identity in their children are limited. Olameinu Mischpacha Baltic Jewish Family Camp, supported by Federation partner the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee (JDC), offers campers the invaluable chance to take part in a larger Jewish community that teaches Jewish values, observes traditional customs, and celebrates Shabbat.

“Sometimes it is challenging to admit to others that you are Jewish. Being at camp is like having a second family. I learn more and more about Judaism and how to work better with the kids. This summer, I realized that if I try hard enough, I can always connect with each and every one of the chanichim (campers).”

—Dan B., counselor, Camp Olameinu Mischpacha

Gallaudet Hillel is engaging Jewish students on campus

“When students have access and exposure to Jewish experiences, they can see a variety of Jewish identities, ways to be involved, and leadership opportunities available to them. Then they’re empowered to connect in the ways most meaningful to them.”

Learning

AT EVERY AGE

Jewish Washingtonians are connecting to their heritage and finding meaning through diverse Jewish learning opportunities. As we grow in Jewish knowledge, we become more curious and engaged members of our family and community. Federation and our partners in Jewish learning are making 3,500+ years of Jewish wisdom accessible and relevant to life in 21st century America.

Vicki’s children are learning Jewish values and traditions

Six Federation-supported local Jewish day schools offer educational excellence and substantive Jewish identity-building, based on a strong foundation of Jewish learning and values.

“I am constantly amazed by the ways in which my children show their appreciation and understanding of not only our family’s traditions, but also the variety of Jewish traditions celebrated by their friends and the wider community. I thank Gesher for embracing families from such a broad range of Jewish expression and practice.”

—Vicki F., parent of Gesher Jewish Day School students

Robert has become better acquainted with his heritage and culture

Federation partner the Bender JCC of Greater Washington is helping adult learners open new lines of communication.

“I didn’t know Hebrew when I began studying at the Bender JCC five years ago, but I wanted to converse with my Israeli granddaughter during visits to Israel. For me, studying Hebrew has been an awakening of Jewish culture, and I have become better acquainted with my heritage. The lessons are also meaningful as I compose music and sing in the Washington Hebrew Congregation choir, because I have always wanted to understand the words I sing and use in compositions, and the spirit— the Jewish soul—behind the language.”

—Robert N., adult learner, Bender JCC

Exploring

OUR GLOBAL JEWISH COMMUNITY

Federation’s missions make it possible to travel through Israel and around the world with members of our community, building lifelong friendships while experiencing unique, hands-on, and dynamic itineraries. Mission participants return with an enhanced connection to the countries and cities they’ve explored and a renewed commitment to the Greater Washington Jewish community.

“My first experience with Federation was on an Israel YOUR Way trip. I had never been to Israel, even though my children had done Birthright Israel and I had always been active in the Jewish community. When I went on this trip, I saw Israel in a way that I never could have imagined, and I also learned about what Federation does around the world in terms of helping all kinds of people—not just Jewish people.”

Caring
AT HOME AND ACROSS BORDERS
The foundation of a community lies in how it cares for its most vulnerable members. Locally and around the world, Federation, our donors, and our partners compassionately address the immediate and long-term needs of those who may not be able to advocate or provide for themselves.

We are there for our community, wherever they live

“I didn’t think we would be affected—we hadn’t flooded. Then I woke up at four in the morning and saw the water at our doorstep. It was terrifying, and it’s been a strain for all of us. We were all raised with the value that we should give back to the community, but I never thought we’d be asking for help. My commitment to give is stronger; I understand the power of the community and the power that Federation has to support all of us. I get it now—we’re taking care of our own people.”

—Margaret L., Houston, TX

Nourishing Jewish life in Havana

“Thanks to the love and the contributions of the American Jewry, we exist. Now, we have a new generation who attend the Sunday school, who are madrichim (leaders), who learn about Judaism. They will be the future leaders.”

—Adela D., Cuban Jewish Community

Since the Cuban revolution nearly 60 years ago, immigration to Israel and the United States has diminished the community and forced its remaining members to struggle to support themselves, both spiritually and financially. After the collapse of the Soviet Union in 1991, many Cubans returned to their religious roots and to synagogues, which were in need of monetary support and resources. Now supported by Federation partner the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee (JDC), Beth Shalom, Cuba’s largest synagogue and Jewish community center, is rebuilding and engaging the next generation of Jewish leaders.

Jack is living with dignity and independence

“What we went through and what we saw in Europe as children, it’s a trauma that stays with you. It’s a thing that never goes away. I don’t care what anybody says, nobody can feel what a Holocaust survivor feels. Being part of a Jewish community gives you dignity, and it’s important to us Holocaust survivors to know that there’s an organization that cares.”

—Jack W., Holocaust survivor

Caring for Holocaust survivors is critical to Federation. We are proud to partner with JSSA, with support from our generous donors, to provide critical safety-net services to hundreds of men and women in our community who survived the Holocaust. This year, 469 survivors in JSSA’s Holocaust Survivor Program received life-saving and life-enhancing services to continue living independently and with dignity.

Yvonne is passing on her family values

“By endowing my Federation Lion of Judah gift, I am able to link the past, the present, and the future, and continue my family’s tradition of giving back to the community. At the same time, I hope I’m passing on these values to my children, because what better legacy is there?”

—Yvonne D., Lion of Judah Endowment

The strength and vitality of women’s philanthropy continues through the Lion of Judah Endowment (LOJE). Diane is investing in the next generation

“The transition between college and the ‘real world’ is a crucial one for millennials to connect to one another and to Judaism, which is why I support the Jewish Millennial Engagement Project (JMEP). Through Federation’s UJEF Matching Grants Program, I’ve been able to double my investment in this important initiative, ensuring that the next generation of Jewish adults are able to establish deep and meaningful relationships.”

—Diane S., JMEP Funder, in partnership with Federation’s UJEF Matching Grants Program
